

STRONG SPEECH BY SENATOR JONES

Delivered at Opening Republican Meeting Held in Seymour.—
Large Crowd.

ISSUES CLEARLY PRESENTED

Record of Last Congress.—Good Laws Enacted.—President Taft and Beveridge Praised.

The Republican speaking campaign in Jackson county was opened last night in Seymour with a speech by Senator Wesley Jones of Washington, one of the leading public men of the Pacific coast.

The meeting was held in the Society Hall at the Majestic Theatre and the hall was well filled by an audience that gave the speaker close attention and frequently applauded his remarks. Senator Jones was introduced by John M. Lewis and gave a clear and forceful presentation of the issues and while the speech was thoroughly Republican it was fair and devoid of partisan bitterness.

He said that all the people regardless of politics desire the laws that will give the greatest happiness and prosperity to the country and he relied upon the record of achievement of the Republican party to sustain its claim for support this year.

The Republicans have been in control of all branches of the government since '96, has redeemed its promises and platform pledges and they have resulted in years of unexampled prosperity. He reviewed the record of the last congress citing the laws enacted as proof that pledges have been redeemed, that the Republican party is one of progress and as refuting any charges that the party is controlled by corporations or special interests. Of the legislation enacted he spoke of the railroad rate law giving the Interstate Commerce commission more power to regulate rates which is in interest of the people, the postal savings bank law, conservation and reclamation laws, protecting resources of the country for all the people and furnishing more homes; the admission of Arizona and New Mexico, as states, as promised without regard to political effect; law for publication of campaign expenses; legislation for the protection of labor in mines, strengthening of employers' liability laws, providing for safety appliances on railroads; laws against white slave traffic; act looking to establishment of peace commission, and eventual saving of large amounts of money.

He called attention to the opposition of Democrats to the efforts to provide for the regulation by the government of the issuance of stocks and the capitalization of great corporations.

Judge Parker has charged great extravagance by the government but has failed to cite one instance where the Democrats had tried to reduce an appropriation but in many instances they had tried to increase them. President Taft's insistence on economy had resulted in the cutting of appropriations very largely and a commission is at work looking to the establishment of better business methods in the departments.

In his discussion of the tariff he did not enter into details but emphasized the fact that all the party believes in the protective system and principles.

With the varied interests and wide extent of this country it was not strange there should be difference of opinion as to the application of the principle and the fixing of rates and while the last law had its imperfections he believed it better than the Dingley law. He called attention to the prosperous conditions of the country under protective laws with work for all at good wages. The people he did not believe could afford to take the risk of a repetition of the disastrous conditions under the Democratic tariff law by giving that party a chance to enact another tariff law.

The Republican tariff law provides for a maximum and minimum tariff which enables us to compel other nations to treat us fairly. The corporation tax has brought in millions of dollars. The tariff commission plan will greatly help in the fair adjustment of schedules in the future. The party believes in national and state laws for the regulation of trusts and great corporations. Business must not be destroyed but the people's interests protected by proper regulations.

He paid splendid tribute to President Taft and Senator Beveridge. The former he considered one of the wisest, ablest and safest executives the country ever had. No state he declared was represented by a man more devoted to the people's interests than Senator Beveridge, who has a reputation for honesty, ability, energy and courage. He urged that the people stand by him by voting the Republican legislative ticket. He and Senator Beveridge were boys together in Illinois.

WHEAT SOWING DELAYED

In Southern Part of County by High Waters.

The farmers in the southern part of county have been delayed in sowing their wheat on account of the recent high waters which covered acres of their farms. As the ground is low, it did not dry up as rapidly as the high sandy soil in this part of the county, and it was not until this week that any wheat could be sown.

The farmers in this county have found wheat growing to be very profitable during the past few years, and it is estimated that the largest acreage ever sown in the county was put in this fall. Most of the fields near Seymour have been sown and the farmers report that it is looking fine. Most of the wheat in the southern part of the county will be sown this week as the ground has been prepared and is in good condition.

Last week by giving one bottle of extract with the purchase of one bottle of Kidney and Liver Remedy, we sold one hundred and seventy-four bottles. We want to sell two hundred bottles this week and we will give for the balance of the week one bottle of pure extract with every purchase of any 50 cent bottle of our remedies.

BURRELL'S HEARING IS DELAYED AGAIN

Message From R. B. Applewhite States That Requisition Was Referred to Attorney-General.

DETECTIVE FOLLOWS BURRELL

Bolles Family Has Made Every Effort to Arrest the Fugitive Ex-Banker.

According to the latest advices the hearing on the requisition to return Hugh Burrell, the fugitive ex-banker, of Brownstown, to Indiana, was held in Oklahoma City this afternoon at 4 o'clock before Governor Haskell. The hearing was set for Monday afternoon at the same hour, but for some reason was not held. The telegrams which have been received from R. B. Applewhite, of Brownstown who is representing the Bolles family in the case, indicate that every effort is being made by the attorneys employed by Burrell to delay the hearing as long as possible.

A message was received late Monday evening from Mr. Applewhite, reading as follows:

"Governor referred requisition to attorney general for special hearing tomorrow at Guthrie. Back before the Governor at 4 o'clock. Burrell out with detailed detective. McNerney says it will be summer before we get Burrell. He won't leave Burrell's side for fear he will be kidnapped. McNerney scared. McAdams says bound to have Burrell but may take ten days."

It was not known at Brownstown why Burrell should be taken from Oklahoma City to Guthrie for a special hearing unless it was a means of playing for time so that the final hearing could be delayed. The detective who has been employed in the case is watching closely every move made by Burrell so that he will not attempt to escape. It is not believed at Brownstown, however, that he will endeavor to get away from the authorities, as he is under a heavy bond of $10,000. If he should fail to appear at the hearing, the bond would be forfeited and he could be rearrested as soon as located.

The Bolles family has made every effort to arrest Burrell and return him to Indiana for trial. Besides contributing liberally to the sum maintained by the directors of the bank and others to be used in the effort to arrest the fugitive ex-banker, the family has paid the expenses of a number of private detectives and has expended a large sum of money for other purposes. They have experienced many obstacles, however, since they began their search for Burrell, and have found that a few persons who ought to have assisted in the arrest of Burrell have endeavored to defeat their purpose. When the bank closed W. R. Bolles lost about $40,000.

The people at Brownstown are anxious that Burrell be returned for trial and are watching every bulletin that is sent regarding the hearing.

Attention Woodmen.

All members urged to be present at the regular meeting Wednesday night. P. A. NICTER, C. GEO. F. MEYER, Clerk.

TYPHOID INCREASES

Due to Unsanitary Conditions In State Says, Dr. Hurty.

"Until Indiana takes further steps to eliminate typhoid fever the citizens of this state can not criticize the benighted countries of Europe on account of cholera," declared Dr. J. N. Hurty, secretary of the State Board of Health, yesterday after the compilation of the mortality statistics for September. The report showed 800 cases of typhoid fever in eighty-three counties of the state, with 158 deaths. Eighty-one counties reported 757 cases and 132 deaths for the same period last year. Typhoid fever and rheumatism were the two most prevalent diseases during the month. The total number of deaths for September, 1910, was 2,780, as compared to 2,660 in 1909. The death rate increased .6 of 1 per cent.

Counties in which epidemics prevailed during September were Allen county, 65 cases; Delaware, 20; Randolph, 24; Vanderburg, 27; Washington, 35; Putnam, 31; Marion, 136.

The highest death rates by ages were the life periods under one year and over sixty-five years. The deaths of children under 1 year old, as reported to the State Board of Health, were 20 per cent. of the total number and those of persons over 65 years old, 26 per cent. The death rate in the northern sanitary section was 14.1; for the central sanitary section, 11.7; for the southern sanitary section, 9.9.

Twenty-seven of the 231 persons who were stricken with diphtheria during September died. There were 334 deaths caused by tuberculosis, 282 of these being due to the disease in pulmonary form. The number of children under 12 years old who became orphans through deaths from tuberculosis were either fathers or mothers between 18 and 40 years old. There were eighty-two deaths from pneumonia, and one from smallpox during the month.

The death rate in the cities was 14.7 as compared to 12.4 as the state rate. For the same month last year the death rate was 16.3. The country death rate was 10.8. Indiana cities returned death rates as follows: Indianapolis, 14.1; Evansville, 13.2; Ft. Wayne, 17.6; Terre Haute, 18.3, and South Bend, 17.5.

Deaths in September caused by violence numbered 232. Six were murders, 28 suicides and 198 accidents. Thirteen of the suicides were by women. Of the accidental deaths 34 were caused by steam railroads, 57 by electric railroads, 2 by city electric railroads, 4 by automobiles, 12 in falls, 11 in mines, 11 by horses and vehicles, 14 by drowning and 7 by electricity.

COURT ADJOURNED AFTER BUSY TERM

Many Cases of Importance Are Disposed of During Last Session.
Large Number of Divorces.

SEVERAL JURY TRIALS HELD

During Term One Life Sentence is Given For Murder.—O'Neal Sent to Reformatory.

The September term of the Jackson circuit court adjourned Monday afternoon. During the term a large number of cases were heard and determined, several of which have been watched with great interest. Besides an unusually large number of divorce cases, several jury trials were held, and the regular probate business was disposed of while court was in session.

One of the most important cases tried was that of the state against Sherman Hill who was charged with violating the liquor laws. In this case the jury failed to agree on a verdict. The defendant is proprietor of a drug store in Ewing, and it was alleged he sold a quart of whiskey to John Fourdice who he knew to be an habitual user of intoxicants. The law provides that a druggist shall not sell liquor to any customer who is known to be an habitual drunkard, even though the affidavits that the liquor is to be used for medicinal, educational or scientific purposes, are properly signed by the applicant. It was brought out in the evidence that the liquor was sold by the defendant to Fourdice, who gave part of it to Thomas Cox. Cox was arrested upon a charge of public intoxication, but was released when he agreed to appear in court against the defendant. The jury failed to agree that Fourdice's reputation as an habitual drunkard was sufficiently established to warrant a conviction of the defendant. Similar cases have been tried in other counties, but this was the first ever filed here and the result was watched closely.

Garfield Bohall was also tried and he was sentenced to life imprisonment. He was charged with murder in the first degree for killing his brother, Thornton, but the jury found him guilty of murder in the second degree.

During this term of court Jesse O'Neal was found guilty of larceny and given a sentence of from one to eight years in the Indiana reformatory at Jeffersonville. The defendant was charged with stealing a turkey, which he claimed he purchased from Isaac Fish for $1.25. The latter denied this, however, and it was shown that the bird was stolen from Andrew Duncan.

The cases against Garry Preggy, who was charged with violating the liquor laws, were dismissed this term, as well as the case against Fred Metzheiser, a detective, who was charged with impersonating an officer. These cases had been set for trial this term but were dismissed upon the recommendation of R. A. Minton, attorney for the Anti-Saloon league, who assisted in the prosecution of the cases. These cases attracted wide interest from the time of the raids which were made by the detectives employed by the W. C. T. U. of Brownstown.

During the term a number of cases which have been on the docket for some time were disposed of, and several were continued until the next term. As a whole the term has been a busy one, and much business was transacted in spite of the inconvenience necessitated by the improvement of the court house.

CAPT. WILLIAM PEABODY

Former B. & O. S-W. President Well Known in Seymour.

Capt. William Peabody who died in Cincinnati a few days ago, is well remembered by the older railroad men and citizens of Seymour.

The Cincinnati Enquirer speaking of him says:

A decade ago he retired from his railroad duties and for the past eight years had been totally blind. Captain Peabody visited the scene of his former activity and was to be seen almost daily in the business district. He is survived by one son, William Peabody, jr., and one daughter, Mrs. William Albert Hall of Madisonville.

Captain Peabody always had the good will of the men serving under him, and his popularity with his subordinates was well shown in the famous strike of 1877, when the operation of the old Marietta & Cincinnati line, of which he was superintendent, was uninterrupted, while not another road in this vicinity could turn a wheel.

He was born in 1837 at Graham, Maine, and was a graduate of the Maine state university, and came to Ohio in 1854. His first employment was as a stake driver for the engineer laying out the route of the old Marietta railroad.

In 1877, following the strike, he left the Marietta road and took service with the old O. & M. road, now the B. & O. Southwestern, as general superintendent, rising to the presidency of the road. When the O. & M. was taken over by the B. & O. Southwestern Captain Peabody became vice president and general manager, which position he held when he retired.

ROMANTIC SPAIN ON VERGE OF LONG EXPECTED CRISIS

Overthrow of Last Monarchy In Iberian Peninsula and Installation of Republican Government Expected by Europe.

By ROBERTUS LOVE.
RECENT events in Spain, land of romance and revolution, indicate early and important changes in the present unstable governmental regime.

Will revolution blaze forth in democratic fury, displacing royalty altogether and rearing upon the crumbled throne a republic, following the lead of Portugal, the smaller neighbor of Spain upon the western border of the Iberian peninsula? Will civil war arise, due to the struggle between the clericals and the anti-clericals—the age worn quarrel of church and state—and result in the dethronement of Alfonso and the restoration of the Carlists, with Pretender Don Jaime as monarch, or will Premier Canalejas, the liberal, be sufficiently skillful to steer between the Scylla of religion and the Charybdis of revolution and maintain the present dynasty? In any event, Spain totters. She has tottered for many generations, but never so despairingly as since the blow dealt her twelve years ago by the United States. Our defeat of Spain, the practical annihilation of her navy by Dewey and by Sampson and Schley, resulting in the loss of her last colonial holdings in the western hemisphere and the orient, was in effect the knockout blow which put to sleep the proudest nation of the world—a nation which four centuries ago was mistress of the world; a nation which, like a decrepit Jeffries of the prize ring, has fought round after round with increasing feebleness in its pathetic effort to "come back" but has kept up the fight thus long because of pride in old time prowess and not in the hope of regaining that prowess.

Spain a Pathetic Figure.

Spain today is the most pathetic figure in the galaxy of nations. Rotten to the vitals, reeking with the immortal infamy of unspeakable crimes, she is but the putrescent corpse of a nation, and in the beginning of this century of light and leading she seems to have reached the point where the old regime will be utterly extinguished and by the reincarnation of the republican spirit a new Spain will arise. When Columbus, under the patronage of the queen of Spain, discovered America the Castilian monarchy ruled the world. Spanish fleets dared every sea that was explored and defied the ships of any nation that ventured to dispute her supremacy. The spherical form of the earth once established by circumnavigation, Spain sent her soldiers to the virgin new world and to the unconquered outposts of the old, exploring, annexing, colonizing. Nearly all South America and Central America and much of North America were hers. The Antilles were hers. The Philippine archipelago was hers. Vast holdings in northern Africa and in Europe beyond the Iberian peninsula were hers. Today she holds a handful of insignificant islands a few miles from her mainland coast—and little else.

What has wrought this stupendous change in the status of Spain? It is largely a matter of climate, but over and beyond that impassable barrier of active and permanent progress lies the Latin twilight zone of incompetency for governmental administration. This also, in fact, is a matter of climate. Spain is a southern country, a warm country. The siesta, the afternoon repose, still inheres in the very fiber of Spanish life. In the northern countries, such as Germany, England and the United States, the necessary struggle against cold weather for a considerable portion of the year has produced strenuous men. Strenuous men do things and continue doing them. Indolent men may be aroused at times, but they sink back into repose. There is a fierce strain in the Latin blood which, when agitated, works valiantly for a time, but the inevitable siesta strain supervenes. Spain has been able to conquer, but she has not been able to keep. She has had, but she has not held. The Castilian love of ease lies at the root of Spain's downfall.

Anniversary of Ferrer's Death, Vatican Dispute and Rebellion In Portugal Factors in Castile's Stormy Future.

Spoils of Conquest Lost.

England conquers and keeps her colonies. Spain has conquered and lost hers. Spain has shown no talent for administration, though before the northern nations became populous and powerful she was a conqueror not to be despised even according to modern ideas. Spain's colonial possessions have fallen away from her from generation to generation because she exploited them for the aggrandizement of her own grandees, just as her internal administration has exploited the Spanish people.

Throughout the world there is no nation more generally despised than Spain, because no nation has committed more and mightier crimes against weaker peoples who have grown strong despite oppression and have thrown off the yoke. South and Central America began the process of ridding themselves of the yoke a century ago. Forlorn little Cuba fought the Spanish exploiters for generations and won at last by the intervention of the United States. That war's result was the climactic humiliation of Spain. It broke her back, and it broke her pride. It uncovered her unsuspected weaknesses. She has been ever since a weakling nation, known of all men as such.

Spain's present troubles have their roots in the remote past. Taxation without representation, the levying of tribute without corresponding return in the way of benevolent assimilation—put your finger upon these things and you touch the very pulse of the machine that now threatens with annihilation the Spain of today and of the past twelve centuries.

Poverty of the People.

Both in her colonies and in her internal provinces Spain has levied tribute against the people to the ultimate edge of starvation and beyond. A recent sojourner in Spain tells us that poverty is "the most painful and haunting fact" that stared him in the face.

"On every hand are men and women in rags who have been hungry ever since they were born and expect to stay hungry until they die," says this traveler. In the hills between Malaga and Granada he found peasants working for from 4 to 8 cents a day, finding employment in the vineyards and olive groves only about seven months in the year. Read here what he says of Spain:

Her public men aspire to be dictators and negative every wholesome desire when it leaves no room for their personal advancement. All desires are of a suppressive character, press censorship, no public meetings, no free education, no unions or alliances, no emigration without permit, no petitions for work nor demonstrations against rapacious authority. With the placing of government supporters in every position of profit, the taxation of every form of labor, product and enterprise, no more is done than will raise revenue, fill the pockets and increase the boasts of those in office and add to the mountain of make believe composing the political and social system of Spain.

Dispute With the Vatican.

But the foregoing excerpt was written before Canalejas, the present premier, came into power. Canalejas is what we in this country at the present moment would call a progressive. He stands for a program of progress rather than for one of stationary adherence to the plundering policies of the past. An ardent Catholic himself, he nevertheless stands pat upon his demand for reforms, which are opposed by the Vatican. The anti-clerical party calls for the taxation of certain church properties and insists that the monks and other clericals who have poured into Spain from the Philippines and other countries, entering various kinds of business, shall be taxed as other business men are taxed. Absolute freedom in religious worship is another plank in the anti-clerical platform.

Many Catholics are enlisted with the anti-clericals, which faction also comprises Socialists, freethinkers and—word of dire dread to every European monarch—republicans.

Altogether outside the anti-clericals, moreover, is a distinct party of republicans which seeks to overthrow and vanquish and beat down utterly and forever the monarchical form of government. These are the men who from day to day and from year to year have been working, hoping, waiting for a republic in Spain. The specter of republicanism is ever and always before the monarchy. For a brief time in 1873 there was a Spanish republic of a sort, with Emilio Castelar as dictator or president, but that eloquent orator of democracy admitted that he was unable to handle either "the red demagoguery of socialism on the one hand or the white demagoguery of Carlism on the other." Early in 1874 he was deposed by a vote of the cortes, the Spanish congress, and Alfonso XIV., father of the present king, drove him out of the country.

Specter of Ferrer Arises.

It appears that the present republican propaganda lacks a virile leader, though many able men are engaged in the revolutionary movement. The ablest of all the Spanish progressives, Professor Francisco Ferrer, was backed up against a stone wall and shot to death on Oct. 13, 1909, by order of the royal government. Ferrer was adjudged guilty of inciting the Barcelona riots of that year, though he denied the charge, and his thousands of friends still maintain stoutly that he was executed without just cause even in law.

The first anniversary of Ferrer's martyrdom—for such it is accounted by advocates of justice and progress the world around—has been awaited with apprehension by King Alfonso and his adherents. Mutterings of a general uprising for the overthrow of the monarchy have been heard. In anticipation of such an outbreak the army reserves were called out, the police and the civil authorities were warned to be on the watch, and that veteran general whose maladministration of Cuba did as much as any other agency to precipitate the Spanish-American war, Valeriano Weyler, took an active hand in preparations for the expected trouble.

Spain is more than five times as large as Portugal, which is about the size of the state of Indiana. The population of Spain is something more than 18,000,000. Portugal has about 5,500,000 people. In Portugal there is a party which favors the union of Spain and Portugal in one republic. Events may take such a turn as to make over the entire Iberian peninsula into a republic. This would make a significant alteration of the map of Europe, for, including France, it would give republican government to all the land between the strait of Gibraltar and the English channel.

PASSPORTS AT MILLENNIUM.

George Bernard Shaw Also Thinks Souls Will Have Numbers.

George Bernard Shaw furnished a little sketch of the coming millennium in a recent London lecture. He said that every man would have a number and name, every man would carry about his passport and his photograph on that passport, and every man would be liable to be called upon by a representative of the state to stand and deliver and show who he was and what he was doing or what he was not doing and why he was doing it.

He also observed that the world might have any amount of inequality of intellect, but he would let everybody have the same income as nearly as possible. Everybody should have a life income of $2,500 a year. The consequence would be, Mr. Shaw admitted, that every one would have to earn his living.

PERT PARAGRAPHS.

ONE way to be happy is by failing to find anything worth being miserable over.

A little friendly advice generally costs all it is worth.

Something that we don't know troubles us a whole lot.

It takes an enterprising person to turn up a fresh trouble every day.

Nothing ventured, nothing goes to the promoter's bank account.

The Standard Oil Company ought to get the arctic region on its list, for there's a lot of money to be made lighting up a single night there.

The mosquito season is over, but slippery sidewalks will soon add to the excitement of life.

The girl who can't sing and won't looks like a gem of purest ray serene beside the one who can't and does.

Gravity may have a lot to do with a man's falling in love, for it frequently makes him grave.

It is a long lane that has no turn and a dark one that has a crook hiding in it.

If failure is but preliminary to success most of us may be excused for disliking preliminaries.

If you don't take care of the present the past will be getting in its work on you.

You may know more than your boss, but don't let him find it out.

There are some things better than a cheerful disposition, but they don't get a chance at you every day.

Don't be a grouch. There is too much competition for you to hope to be a great success at it.

Good Advice.

"Daughter?"
"Yes, pa."
"Never marry a short man."
"But Charlie is awfully short."
"Don't marry him then."
"Why not?"
"A short man is always trying to borrow money of his relatives."

Spreading.

Yes, every country has been hit By this insurgent fight. In darkest India they sit And rubber at the light.

Practical.

"Did he get results from sleeping on the wedding cake?"
"Yes; fine."
"Well, I am consumed with curiosity."
"He woke up in the night."
"And heard voices?"
"No; ate the cake."

The Gossip.

"She is a medium."
"Talks to spooks and them things?"
"Oh, no."
"But I thought you said she is a medium."
"So she is. A circulating medium."

Might Deprive Himself.

"I want to give you some advice."
"I wish you would charge me for it."
"What for?"
"So that I could take it or not, according to how I felt."

Mean Thing.

"She has beautiful hair."
"Hasn't she?"
"So fine and glossy!"
"Yes; that brand always gives such good satisfaction."

Good Idea.

"He doesn't know enough to come in out of the rain."
"Then they ought to put him through a waterproofing process."

Held by the Past.

We try to change our mode of life, But find that habit grips us. We plan to be a different man, But habit slyly trips us. We map a course on other lines And for success go gunning. Then drop into the same old rut In which we have been running.

Good resolutions by the bale We bravely put in writing And, fortified by them, fare forth To win our way by fighting. Off with the old, on with the new, A promising beginning. But there's old habit looking on And quite serenely grinning.

It's very easy to sit down And say henceforth yours truly Will not mix up in anything That is not thought out duly; That henceforth he will concentrate And not his forces scatter, But executing them is not A very simple matter.

The habits of our daily life, Of slow and silent landing, Are not so lightly put aside, So easily of breaking. We swear we will do thus and so And be a ten times winner, But drop into the ancient ways, Like any other sinner.

A Fashion Chat on Utility Skirts

Furnished by Pictorial Review
West 39th Street, New York City

No wardrobe is complete without one or two extra skirts. Doubtless it may be a bit smarter to wear a one piece costume on some occasions, but there are many times during the course of a month that the extra skirt is an absolute necessity. Just at present the skirt question is really the fashion topic of the hour, and the proper skirt for the tailor-made coat suits and costumes is an anxious one, because of their severity of line. There is a large quantity of beautiful soft materials manufactured especially to suit draped tunics, gathered flounces, sheer fabrics to veil changeable taffeta and soft satins and brocade. The very narrow skirt is no longer a question—it is a fact in which tailor-mades are included.

Even if the skirt is laid in plaits at the top, it is kept within the prescribed limits by a band at knee depth, with the plaits falling free below. Sometimes this fullness is held in by a plain looking band that is really a slightly circular flounce, and again there are sometimes two of these circular flounces.

The plaited skirt is still seen, however, the plaits being stitched at the top, and excellent tailoring keeps them straight and close all the way down, retaining the slender, silhouette figure now so fashionable.

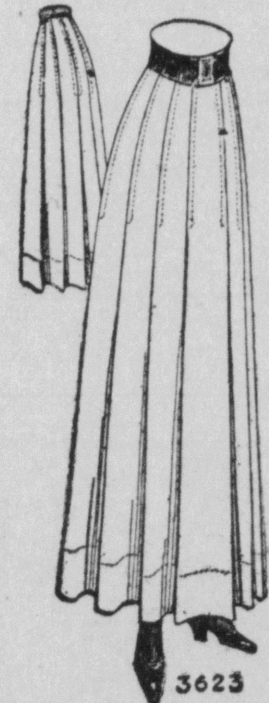

The band on plaited skirts affords a medium for trimming which often is only a bias strip of the goods, but in other cases takes the form of a braided band, satin fold or a wide band of lace—the choice being decided by the nature of the gown of which it is a part.

To sum up the situation in skirt styles, great latitude is permissible if they are a part of a dressy gown, but for tailored and utility wear they should be plain, not overly full, and straight in line from the waist line down.

The stout woman looks better in a skirt without the band, and, of course, the figure should always be considered before selecting a pattern.

It is almost impossible to keep up with the names of the new colors and materials that flood the counters of smart shops. Color are soft, dull and really new tones of old and familiar shades while the fabrics are more than alluring in their softness of finish and will outwear many of the old-fashioned stiff materials of years gone by.

PICTORIAL REVIEW PATTERN No. 3598 was originally made up of a mixed suiting in a checked pattern. It consists of eight gores the front and back, being in panel style, and the three gores at each side are plaited and lengthened by a circular flounce with a band heading. The closing is at the left of the center front, under one of the plaits. It is an excellent design to wear with a coat or waist of the same material. Pattern sizes are for 22, 24, 26, 28 and 30 inches waist measure, and the medium size requires 3 3/4 yards of 44 inch material.

PICTORIAL REVIEW PATTERN No. 3611 as here shown is made up of black broadcloth, having a band braided with black soutache and narrow folds of black satin edging the band, which is stitched at knee depth. The skirt consists of nine gores having an inverted plait at each seam stitched all the way down, and lengthened by a circular flounce. Pattern sizes are in 22, 24, 26, 28 and 30 inches waist measure, and the medium size will require 3 3/4 yards of 44 inch material.

The last skirt shown represents PICTORIAL REVIEW PATTERN No. 3623 and would be exceedingly smart made up of dark blue nate cloth, which is one of the new materials with rather a coarse basket weave, having irregular threads that give the fabric a rough surface. The skirt consists of seven gores plaited at the top and stitched down over the hips. Provision is made for regulation of shorter length. This skirt is a popular design for wear with medium length coat of same material or for general utility wear with shirt waists. Pattern sizes are in 22, 24, 26, 28, 30 and 32 inch waist measure, the medium size requiring 5 1/4 yards of 44 inch material.

The price of these patterns, including cutting and construction guides are 15 cents each number.

FARMER'S WIFE HAD HEAP TO DO

Mrs. Shepherd Was in Bad Shape
When She Could Not Stand on Her Feet.

Durham, N. C.—"I am a farmer's wife," writes Mrs. J. M. Shepherd, of this city, "and have a heap to do."

"Four months ago I could not stand on my feet, to do anything much, but at this time I do the most of my work. I took Cardui and it did me more good than all the doctors."

"You don't know half how I thank you for the Cardui Home Treatment. I wish that all women who suffer from womanly trouble would treat themselves as I have."

Ladies can easily treat themselves at home, with Cardui, the woman's tonic. It is easy to take, and so gentle in its action, that it cannot do anything but good.

Being composed exclusively of vegetable ingredients, Cardui cannot lay up trouble in your system, as mineral drugs often do. Its ingredients, having no harsh, medicinal effects, and being non-poisonous and perfectly harmless, Cardui is absolutely safe for young and old.

Ask your druggist. He will tell you to try Cardui.

CANNIBALISM ON SANDWICH PLAN

Papuans Eat Human Delicacies
With Sago and Leaves.

MUCH ETIQUETTE INVOLVED.

Slayer Cannot Dine on Victim, but Dodges Violation of Table Manners
by Exchanging With Another Conqueror, According to British Government of New Guinea.

The lieutenant governor of the British portion of New Guinea has returned to London for a brief holiday and made his countrymen's flesh creep with tales of cannibalism as still practiced by natives under his jurisdiction. The interior of New Guinea is perhaps the largest terra incognita remaining on the earth's surface, and, according to Governor Murray, it hides many mysteries.

The native Papuans are divided into many distinct tribes, primitive and barbarous, but in some respects of high native intelligence. They are easily won over from barbarism and induced to take up some form of employment. The governor during his trips into the interior heard constantly of a race of long tailed pygmies who dwelt just over the mountains, but exploration always brought the answer that they were just farther on.

The interior Papuan village wholly consists of a single building from 300 to 400 feet long and about 70 feet high. It is divided into tunnel-like compartments capable of sheltering as many as 1,500 persons. In front of the building is a platform whereon the cannibal feasts take place. Governor Murray recently arrived at one of these villages in time to be present at the eating of a freshly roasted body.

Club Sandwich Idea Popular.

"The bodies are placed on the platform, singed and afterward roasted. The flesh is cut up into small portions, sprinkled with sago, wrapped in leaves and distributed, he asserts.

"There are less pretentious cannibal exploits on a smaller scale. It is a point of Papuan etiquette that you must not eat the man you have killed, but you may satisfy your conscience by exchanging victims with another man, having first sealed the compact by disfiguring the corpse in accordance with conventional rules.

"Many of the tribes have their own notions of how cannibalism should be conducted. In some districts the victims are roasted, while in others boiling is preferred. I have known instances in which the process of cooking is done over a fire, the body being sandwiched between two layers of sago. Some of the tribes have a weakness for eating babies and organize raids on neighboring villages for the purpose of kidnapping infants."

Discussing other characteristics Governor Murray says:

"I do not think the average Papuan has the slightest fear of death. I have known a native when charged with murder to fall fast asleep within five minutes of the beginning of the trial. As judge I have sentenced a man to death while he yawningly reminded me that he was tired of the whole legal formality.

"The male Papuan is more or less the creature of indolence, but directly he is taken in hand he becomes disciplined with astonishing readiness. Ask a native in his primitive days to fetch a wheelbarrow and he immediately takes it up in his arms and handles it as a fond mother would carry a child. I have seen Papuan men when first given a spade lay it on the ground, pile the soil on it with both hands and then gaze at it in bewilderment. A few months later their working faculty had developed most intelligently.

Papuans Great Linguists.

"As a matter of fact, they are a sensible people and in many respects highly sensitive as well. As linguists they have few equals. Nearly every tribe has its own language, not merely a variation of some mother tongue, and I have met natives who could speak seven or eight languages.

"In one part of the island it is compulsory that the wife shall speak one language and the husband another. They know both, of course, but they maintain the traditional custom as though their existence depended upon it.

"There is another singular trait associated with this tribe. Although they understand two languages, it is essential that they should speak a third while engaged in fishing exploits. They periodically visit a neighboring island, which they make their temporary abode while the fishing excursion lasts.

"All sorts of dreadful things await the Papuan who neglects to make use of this third language, and disaster would overwhelm the entire tribe if in an unguarded moment any one mentioned the number seven.

"Why the demons of destruction should be liberated by so simple an utterance does not permit of explanation, even by the most profound Papuan, but the awe inspired by the mystic word is very real indeed."

JAPANESE SOLVE PROBLEM OF CHEAP PEARL GROWING.

Produce $200 Specimens at Cost of but $2 by Secret Process.

A secret method of producing pearls which would make them as plentiful and as cheap as the collar button if it should become generally known was referred to by Professor Bashford, dean of Columbia university, at the annual meeting of the American Fisheries society in New York recently.

"In a little harbor about fifty miles south of Tokyo, Japan," he said, "the pearl oyster has been forced by a secret process to secrete perfect and spherical pearls. When I was at the University of Japan the emperor himself opened these oysters and took out the pearls, so there is no doubt about the genuine success of this experiment."

"There is no danger of the method becoming known just yet, the secret having been withheld, even from the emperor; otherwise pearls would be in danger of a great fall in value. By the new method it costs $2 to produce a pearl worth $200."

"This secret was the invention of the late Dr. N. Nishikawa, a graduate of the University of Tokyo, and he bequeathed it to his father-in-law, Mikemoto, one of the most famous pearl raisers of Japan."

"I do not know this process, but surmise that the pearl is formed by introducing scientifically a piece of mother-of-pearl into the shell, around which the pearl is formed, taking the place of the worm which nature uses to form the core of the naturally grown pearl. The only way to disclose this would be to cut into one of the pearls, but that would be an expensive way to get a hint of the secret."

CATTLE RANGES ARE PASSING

Wyoming Ranchman Deplores Effect of Dry Farming.

The vast "range" of the western "cow country," which has been the scene of romantic Indian and cowboy stories since the pioneer days, is fast becoming a thing of the past. The cattlemen of Wyoming say that "things are not as they were in the good old days" before fences and dry farmers found their way into the grazing states of the northwest.

With the advent of the dry farmers, who take out government homesteads of 160 or 320 acres, the large cattle ranch owners saw the great expanse of government grazing land cut up into small tracts and fenced off. The farmers picked out the choice land along the few rivers and creeks of the country, thus fencing in the natural watering places.

"The next ten years will see a great change in all this country," said W. T. Wolfe, owner of a 15,000 acre ranch in eastern Wyoming. "There will be a bigger change than in the past twenty-five years, I believe."

"It is only a question of time when all except a few of the cow people will have to clear out. I think the result will be that a great many of the cattlemen will go to South America and secure grazing land there."

QUEENS TALLER THAN KINGS

Norwegian and Belgian Rulers Europe's Only Exceptions.

A remarkable feature about the physiques of reigning European monarchs is that they are nearly all shorter than their consorts. King George V. is several inches shorter than Queen Mary.

The German empress is a trifle taller than the kaiser, who insists on the empress sitting down when they are photographed together. Czar Nicholas II. looks quite small by the side of the czarina. Alfonso of Spain is a head shorter than Queen Victoria Eugenie, and the king of Italy hardly reaches to the shoulder of Queen Helen.

The queen of Denmark, too, is a good deal taller than her husband. Exceptions to the rule are the king of Norway and the new king of the Belgians. The latter is six feet two inches in height and the tallest king in Europe.

Buy Bird, Then Shoot It.

A Paris game dealer has discovered a paying stratagem for sportsmen who are unsuccessful. In the basement of the shop there is a popgun and a supply of pellets, and sportsmen who wish to affirm that they have shot their birds may on payment of a shilling fire some small shot at their purchases.

OUTLAW LOSES 7 YEARS' SIEGE

Wisconsin's Famous Court Defender Faces Trial For Life.

SIX HOUR BATTLE BEAT DIETZ

Fusillade of a Thousand Shots and Illness of His Wife Necessary to Compel Surrender of Defender of Cameron Dam and Spurner of Eight Indictments.

After seven years' defiance of state and federal authorities John H. Dietz, known throughout Wisconsin and adjacent commonwealths as "the outlaw of Cameron dam," is not only in jail, at the little logging camp of Winter, but is charged with the slaying of a deputy sheriff by a coroner's jury.

Not only is the famous outlaw of the northern Wisconsin woods facing a trial for murder, but two members of his family as well—his wife, Mrs. Hattie Dietz, and his son Leslie—as none of the successful attacking party can tell who fired the shot which killed Deputy Oscar Harp.

Thus the end of a prolonged battle draws near—one in which several men have been slain and many wounded. Throughout Dietz, beleaguered though he was in his log castle, has retained not only the spoils of victory from the opposing corporation, but the sympathy of the loggers and woodsmen generally.

The warfare arose over Dietz's contention that the Cameron dam, on the Thornapple river, was on his property, and he refused to allow the Chippewa Log and Boom company to float several winter's cut of logs unless toll was paid.

Courts Successfully Defied.

He was fought in the courts by the lumber company, but defied bench warrants and held off officers who attempted to serve them with a shotgun.

Then Dietz won, and the lumber company paid him a large sum to have the logs sent through the dam.

Then there were township wrangles, and in all there were eight indictments against Dietz. A few days before the final assault on the Dietz home deputies fired upon three of the outlaws' children, wounding a son, Clarence, and a daughter, Myra, but Leslie escaped and gave the alarm to his father.

Dietz did not surrender until his cabin and every other building in his clearing had been riddled with bullets. For six hours and five minutes every volley fired by the attacking forces was replied to vigorously from the loopholed wall of the cabin.

Almost every inch of the floor was covered with flattened, twisted bits of lead that had been bullets until they tore through the cabin walls, knocking off splinters from the inside and falling harmlessly to the floor.

Sobbing on a chair in one corner of the room, with an apron thrown over her head, sat Mrs. Dietz, while Leslie sat on a chair across from her, scowling savagely, but making no attempt to resist the officers' entrance. The youngest son, John Junior, was called up from the cellar where he had been hidden from the bullets.

Dietz Only Fighter.

"I don't know how I ever lived through it," sobbed Mrs. Dietz. "It was terrible. I sat through it all in a corner of the sitting room with Helen, and we did not move during it all. I did not fire a shot, nor did the children."

Dietz himself was so weak he could not stand. He had been shot in the hand, but had kept on shooting his repeating rifle and automatic pistols until the threatened collapse of his wife brought him to a realization that his was at best a losing fight.

The battle had been one of the fiercest "last ditch" stands ever made by a lone fighter against desperate odds. The old homesteader had defended his cabin and his family with the desperation that pioneer settlers were wont to display when hostile Indians surprised them and attacked in force.

More than 1,000 shots had been fired into the house by 100 picked sharpshooters. There was no telling how many times Dietz had replied, but the floor of the cabin was littered with empty rifle and revolver shells, and the powder smoke within the house was so dense as to make breathing almost impossible.

J. P. Morgan Couldn't Separate Him-

In order that he might be kept fully informed as to the standing of his stocks and not cut off from them at any time during the Episcopal triennial convention at Cincinnati, J. Pierpont Morgan procured two wires to New York city from one of the telegraph companies.

One of these wires had a ticker attached and reported fluctuations in stocks, and the financier also had another wire direct to his New York offices, over which he kept in touch with his partners in that city.

Many a woman prides herself upon

Some Reasons.

A fancy feeling, indistinct.
About my head is floating—
It seems to me I heard a word
Or two concerning voting.
And that reminds me, I must take
My rifle and go gunning
For several special candidates
Who fancy they are running.

Ah, when we amble to the polls
To drop our solemn ballot
For pen with which to make the mark
We often use a mallet!
Instead of striving for the best
And for our country planning,
We look for names we do not like
And only think of canning.

Some men who didn't ask our wife
When his wife gave a party
We will remember, you can bet,
And scratch him good and hearty,
And any one who kicked our dog
Or said our verse was rotten
Will know when listening to returns
His acts were not forgotten.

The good that men can do may cut
A figure in the voting.
But other things may enter in,
As I just here am noting.
Upon the noble and the great
We may delight in gazing,
But still we never can forget
Our enemies need hazing.

The Best of It.

"My dad's a rich man," boasted the freckled faced boy.
"Is that so?" glibbed the redheaded little girl.
"You bet."
"Mine is richer than that."
"How could he be?"
"Cause he's as rich as a hundred rich men."

Sure Thing.

"Beauty adorned?"
"Oh, I know all about that."
"Do you?"
"Yes; is adorned the most."
"Not on your life!"
"No?"
"No; is due to run a large monthly account."

And He Could Do It.

"She married a count."
"Gladys?"
"Yes."
"Mercy! I wonder how she could do it."
"Oh, she wanted some one to count her dad's millions."

Couldn't Penetrate It.

"Did that hired girl I sent up reach you?" telephoned the employment agent.
"Yes; she got here some time ago."
"She is an angel in disguise."
"Oh, what a perfect disguise!"

Exceptions.

"There is a foolish streak in all of us."
"Not all."
"No?"
"No. In some it is just a streak that isn't foolish."

Tarsus Lighted by Electricity.

The ancient city of Tarsus, in Asia Minor, has recently been lighted by electricity. The power is taken from the rapidly flowing Cydnus river. About one and a half miles from the city an eighty horsepower turbine is made to drive a large dynamo, which furnishes sufficient power for 1,000 lamps of sixteen candlepower each; 450 are now used to light the streets of the city and the remainder will be furnished to private consumers. It is proposed to extend the electric lighting system to Adana and Mersine, the power to be likewise furnished by the Cydnus river and transmitted by wire to these places.

Opening Game of the World's Series Was Witnessed by 26,891 Persons, Who Saw the Philadelphia Team Handily Take the First Game Looking to the Acquisition of the Pennant.

At Philadelphia— R.H.E.
Cubs..... 0 0 0 0 0 0 1—1 3 1
Athletics... 0 2 1 0 0 0 1*—4 7 2
Batteries—Overall, McIntyre and Kling; Bender and Thomas.

Philadelphia, Oct. 18.—Big Orval Overall got a worse pounding yesterday afternoon from the Athletics' swatters than ever he got from the Stanford footballers back in those college days when the big "C" he wore stood for California and not Chicago. The Philadelphia beat him up in three innings and got runs enough to stow away the first game of the series for the world's championship, four runs to one. Collegian Bender, who used to wear a Carlisle "C," had the Indian sign on the Cubs, the National League champions. Indian sign is said advisedly. Bender was there with terrific speed, and he clipped the corners for batter after batter. For eight innings he pitched so well that it looked as if Frank Schulte's single in the first inning would be the total of the Cubs' clouting. But the Cubs are not easy to stop and their rally in the ninth was very near a tying one. They got two hits off Chief Al and with an error made a run of it, but Bender made one strike out, another roll to the second baseman, and still another hit into a force, so the rally perished a-borning.

It was a game worthy the opening of the momentous struggle. The Cubs, masters of inside and outside baseball, mighty on the paths and terrific with the bats, were a tame lot almost all the way. They could not get to Bender, and they found that the Athletic defense was pretty near impregnable. The Mack men would not make errors, and they handled everything in fine style. And as for catchers, why, Thomas Collins turned back Frank Schulte twice, and he was the only one of the Cubs who tried to steal. And what's more, the only stolen base of the game is credited to Murphy of the Athletics, so the early predictions that Kling would turn them all back were not verified.

The surprise of the contest was the pitching of Harry McIntyre, whom the Cubs got from the Brooklyn's a while ago. It must have wrenched the feelings of his ex-boss, Charley Ebbets, who was there, to see the way McIntyre handled the situation. The Athletics got one hit off him in the five innings he was on the slab. To be sure, that one hit was a double that almost flew to the right field fence, and it drove in Eddie Collins, who was on third because Mac gave him a base on balls and then threw wild to catch him napping at first. That was the only time McIntyre was not in good form, but the three events coming in sequence accounted for a run. Mac, however, showed form most of the way, that made it appear he would have done good execution had he been in the box all the time. However, he was not, and for the Athletics it was a bull's good game.

Cold fact requires it to be said that the attendance was not 50,000, but 26,891; that is to say, those were the paid admissions. The total receipts were $37,424.50. Of this the players' share is $20,209.23; each club gets $6,736.41, and the national commission's percentage is $3,724.45.

Ground rules were observed on hits into the crowd. They counted for two bases only. That was tough on Lord in the third inning, for he stung one that would have been a homer had it not rolled off a little to the right of center in the very fringe of the crowd there. The game did not begin until 2:15, because there was a long wrangle over the moving-picture men who had their machines on the field. It appears that Ban Johnson, the American League president, gave them permission to stay there.

Umpire Connolly, however, would not let a man stay in behind the plate, as the picture man wanted to. This occasioned a lot of wrangling, but Connolly won out. Some dreadful fate probably awaits him for thus defying Johnson, but the public was with him.

POOL IS OFF

The 1910 Crop of Tobacco to Be Put on Open Market.

Lexington, Ky., Oct. 18.—The district board of the Burley Tobacco Society has officially declared off the pool of the 1910 crop. The independent pool launched in Scott county ceases to exist with the Burley pool, a signed declaration committing its founders to a no-pool policy. The effect will be the release of all tobacco under contract, and predictions were that a vast quantity would be on the market. Reason for this action as given in the resolution, was the presence of the large number of buyers put into the field by a leading tobacco company.

PEOPLE REMEMBERED

Bryan's Return to Indiana Recalls
Former Calamity Howls.

[Special Correspondence.]

Indianapolis, Oct. 18.—Prosperity hit W. J. Bryan full and fair on his calamity bone when he toured Indiana beginning last Friday. At Burlington, off the railroad, where Mr. Bryan had a fine crowd, there were at least 100 big touring cars, driven by farmers, by their wives, by their sons and by their daughters. At Auburn the crowd was one of the best dressed, contented looking throngs ever gathered for any purpose in Indiana. It was the same everywhere Mr. Bryan traveled. It was in one of his earlier speeches against Republican policies, several years ago—some ten years back, in fact,—that Mr. Bryan, with the unctious of a prophet, demanded that the people take heed to his vision. In that campaign he predicted in so many words that unless the doctrine of protection and sound money be overthrown and his ideas substituted that "famine and hunger will be with us and over the land. Remember what I say." And the people do remember. They sat back in their autos at Burlington, and—remembered. They took their ease contentedly, in well-dressed and wholesome pride at Auburn, Owensville, Jamestown, New Ross, and other places where Mr. Bryan spoke, and—remembered. And while they recalled the old time calamity shout, they grinned, and they wondered in well bred, quiet way, why Mr. Bryan made no allusion to prevailing prices.

The cry in 1896 in the Bryan campaign was for high prices and more money. The people have more money and better prices. Mr. Bryan, in his talks to farmers, did not refer even remotely to this fact. On the other hand, Mr. Bryan, in Indiana, is part of a campaign being made by Shively, Kern, and the Democratic organization, against existing commodity values, and in favor of lower prices. Indiana farmers, listening from their prosperity chariots in various rural centers, listened in vain for Mr. Bryan's demand for low prices, seconding Kern's cry. They heard Mr. Bryan praise Kern. But they did not hear Mr. Bryan join Kern in demanding a return to low prices and low wages. These same farmers are watching at this time to see what Mr. Bryan will say Wednesday in Indianapolis on the subject of prices. They want to know if Mr. Bryan is singing high prices to farmers and low prices to working men. They want to know if he stands for low city wages in the country and low priced farm products in the city.

The general feeling is that Mr. Bryan's tour of Indiana has done Democrats more harm than good. Mr. Bryan does not stand on the Indiana Democratic platform either on national or state issues that are vital. The Democratic tariff plank in Indiana is a Joe Bailey plank which Mr. Bryan has denounced repeatedly in Texas. The city and township unit option plank of Democrats in Indiana is directly hostile against county unit option, and the latter is the one thing Mr. Bryan is fighting for today, because he thinks the county unit is right. Mr. Bryan has bolted Dahlgren, the Democratic candidate for governor in Nebraska because Dahlgren announces he will veto a county option bill if one is passed. In Indiana there is a county unit option law, in use, and more than 73,000 majority in counties where it has been tried, have declared for the maintenance of the law. Democrats propose to repeal it. And Mr. Bryan, bolting his ticket on that very issue in his own state, comes here to tell voters to stand by Taggartism and help to repeal the law. He bolts a man who threatens the law in Nebraska. He boosts the men who are pledged to repeal the same law, after it has been endorsed by a tremendous majority in Indiana.

Now W. J. Bryan is a good man. He works for good measures and for decent progress along many lines. He has been called on many times to describe some difficult twists and somersaults in order to keep regular and remain "available" within the Democratic party. He has always tried to be better than the Taggarts, Sullivans, Murphys, Ryans and Belmonts in his party. And he has always succeeded in that regard. He is keeping regular at this time. But his people know the facts. His followers in Indiana know how impossible it is for Mr. Bryan actually to favor or to forward the cause which Taggartism represents.

It has been significant in the Bryan meetings in the country all over Indiana that the people, men and women alike, have worn ribbons bearing the legend: "We are for temperance." And this is the best evidence that the people understand. They do not wear the insignia as an affront to Mr. Bryan. They know these ribbons do not affront, but rather please Mr. Bryan. And in all his audiences in the state, the temperance people have been busy passing to the crowd Mr. Bryan's arguments in favor of county option and against bossism. While Mr. Bryan was on the stump promulgating the doctrine dictated by Taggartism, his speeches for the cause of the people were being spread broadcast among the voters. So after all, the effect of Bryan's tour is not much of a problem, more than it was in 1904.

BATTLE HYMN OF THE REPUBLIC

As the Author of the Inspiring Hymn Which Still Stirs the Blood Like a Trumpet Call, the Fame of Mrs. Howe Will Endure Long After Her Labors For Abolition and Woman's Suffrage Are Forgotten.

Middletown, R. I., Oct. 18.—Mrs. Julia Ward Howe, author of the "Battle Hymn of the Republic," is dead at her summer home here, aged ninety-one years.

The three daughters of the aged authoress, Mrs. Florence Howe Hall, Mrs. Laura Richards and Mrs. John Elliott, were gathered about the bedside of their mother when the end came. John Elliott, her son-in-law, was also present. Death was due to heart failure, resulting from advanced age and a severe cold recently contracted.

Julia Ward Howe's life had epitomized the notable movements of her time, and her outlook upon humanity was fresh and hopeful to the day of her death. Oliver Wendell Holmes said of her on her seventieth birthday, "To be seventy years young is far more cheerful and hopeful than to be forty years old."

William Dean Howells she considered to be the most representative American at the end of the Nineteenth century. Henry James had lived so long abroad that he could hardly be called representatively American, although he was a beautiful and finished writer. "The Battle Hymn of the Republic" she liked best of her own writings—not the best in a literary sense, but as bringing more satisfaction to her. Long after Julia Ward Howe's labors for abolition and woman's suffrage are forgotten, her fame will endure as the author of that inspiring hymn which stirs the blood yet like a trumpet call.

She was twenty-three years old and on a visit to friends in Boston when she met Dr. Samuel Gridley Howe of Boston, who became her husband. With Longfellow and Charles Sumner she was visiting the Perkins institute for the blind in order to meet Laura Bridgman. Mr. Sumner, looking out of a window, called, "Oh, here comes Howe on a black horse."

"I beheld," said she, "a noble rider on a noble horse." They were married that year. They went to Europe immediately and Mrs. Howe was received as the wife of the "New Bayard." Howe's heroic labors for Greece in her struggle for independence, his devotion to the education of the blind and activity in the anti-slavery movement had won for him that title. They found, on returning to Boston, that the city was a hot-bed of fermenting idea. Transcendentalism, abolition and liberal thought in religion were discussed by the Howes with Garrison, Wendell Phillips, Sumner, Agassiz, Lowell and many others. Julia Ward formed a friendship for Theodore Parker, not generally liked at that time, a friendship which continued until his death. He assisted Dr. Howe in pushing the anti-slavery paper, the Commonwealth. She wrote poems, articles for periodicals, a five-act blank verse play, "The World's Own," produced at Wallack's in 1855. She wrote "Hippolytus" for Edwin Booth, but it never saw the light. She made excursions into the fields of philosophy, ethics, religion and poetry.

During the war she was a leader in the intellectual life of the nation. She accompanied Dr. Howe to Europe several times and made trips to Cuba and Santo Domingo. She endeavored to interest the women of the world in a movement for peace, seeking to assemble a great peace congress.

Dr. Howe died Jan. 9, 1876, and she became identified with a cause which she came to look on as the foremost question of the time—the political enfranchisement of women. She was one of the founders of the New England Women's club. She gave forty years of her life to gracious and dignified work to the cause of suffrage. She lent it the dignity of a gracious and brave presence.

Its Peculiarity.

"Did you ever notice anything funny about his conversation?"
"Funny? I should say not. There's absolutely no point to it."
"That's the funny part of it. Having no point to it, how is it that he bores so quickly?"

NEW CORSET MODELS ARE HERE

We have just received the new models of Thomson's "Glove Fitting" Corsets

They are designed to give that long, slim, lightsome appearance to the waist and to reduce the size of the hips very materially. This is accomplished by the unusual tailoring of the corset.

Stout women especially will realize the importance of these features. Reduction is accomplished by the tailoring and not by the strappings and accessories used on the patented "reducers."

There is a model for every figure be it stout or slender.

WELLMAN GIVES NO ANSWER TO INQUIRY

Big Balloon Apparently Out of Wireless Range.

New York, Oct. 18.—The wireless people are continually fishing the air for Walter Wellman and the dirigible America, but there is no answer to the incessant call, "W.N." stridulating from steamships in the North Atlantic lanes and from the many public and private stations along the coast.

At the rate Wellman and his crew were sending along the America, the airship, if still aloft, should be off Sable Island, N. S., but the Marconi station at Camperdown, N. S., could not connect up with Jack Irwin, the wireless operator of the America. Wireless word has been received from twenty-five Atlantic liners, none of which mentioned the America, although all of them presumably had been calling to Irwin for a tip as to his whereabouts. Many of them were in positions where they might have been expected to hook up aerials with the America. With no word from Wellman since 12:40 p. m. Sunday, when Jack Irwin flashed that all was well, the friends of the America's crew are getting anxious. There is absolutely no indication as to where the dirigible has veered, whether she is still pegging away toward Ireland or whether she had dropped somewhere on top of the United States or Canada's basement.

If the America is still sailing, she has beaten all records for continuous flight of dirigibles, possibly all records for endurance by gas bags. Count Zeppelin on May 31, 1909, sailed his dirigible 37 hours, traveling more than 850 miles. At noon today, if the America was still going, her captain Melvin Vanninman, had sailed her 75 hours and 47 minutes. At Atlantic City, Wellman's backers are figuring that he has traveled at least 1,000 miles.

Roosevelt Again Campaigning.

Troy, N. Y., Oct. 18.—Mr. Roosevelt beat his way up the Hudson Monday in the interests of Mr. Stimson and the Republican ticket. He spent most of his time lambasting John A. Dix, whom he treated with the bitterest scorn. He attacked him at every opportunity.

Conspiracy Cases Called.

Louisville, Oct. 18.—J. J. Keane, T. J. Needham, T. T. O'Leary and C. G. Sheott, charged with a criminal conspiracy to defraud Indianapolis insurance companies by taking bad risks, are on trial in the criminal division of the Jefferson county circuit court.

PENNSY EMPLOYEES

AIRING GRIEVANCES

Long Threatened Strike May Yet Break Out.

Pittsburg, Oct. 17.—A feeling of unrest has come over many of the 6,000 employees of the Pennsylvania railroad on the Pittsburg division, which extends from Pittsburg to Altoona. The under officials of the road who come in direct contact with the men are accused of not trying to carry out provisions of the agreement entered into recently between employees and the road, and an appeal is being made to the highest authority of the road for immediate redress. If it is not forthcoming there will come the strike which was so long threatened and so narrowly averted some months ago.

There was a special and secret meeting Sunday of the different grievance committees of the employees in Pittsburg. About two score specific grievances were taken up by the different committees and threshed out completely and most of them were later sent direct to General Manager Meyers, of the road, at Philadelphia. Members of the different unions seen after the meeting declared their confidence in President McCrea and in the general manager, but declare the interpretation of agreements when left to the under officials is against the men.

ON HIS HONOR

Convicted Man Paroled to Attend Funeral of His Mother.

Anderson, Ind., Oct. 17.—After sentencing Lewis Monday to a term of from one to fourteen years in the state reformatory Judge Bagot placed the young man on his honor to go alone to attend the funeral of his mother at Mt. Carmel, Ill., with the understanding that he report tomorrow morning to Sheriff Mountain to be taken to Jeffersonville. Monday was convicted of having stolen $700 from his employer.

First Reports Exaggerated.

Havana, Oct. 17.—News from the province of Pinar del Rio is still meager, except from the capital of the province, where many buildings, some of the largest in the city, were damaged by the hurricane. The damage to the tobacco crop may prove not to have been so complete as was at first reported. The sugar cane is not hurt.

Restored to Liberty.

Mexico City, Oct. 17.—Brigadier General Gustavo Mass of the Mexican army, who was convicted and sentenced to death for the murder of David Oliveres in this city, has been given his liberty and reinstated in his position in the army, after serving two years in prison, the original sentence being modified to that term.

Cayman Islands Devastated.

Kingston, Jamaica, Oct. 17.—Steamers arriving here report that the Cayman Islands have been devastated by a hurricane which passed over them last week. One steamer encountered the storm between the Caymans and Cuba. For twenty hours the wind blew at the rate of eighty miles an hour.

Still Given Kingly Honors.

Gibraltar, Oct. 17.—Ex-King Manuel, his mother, Amelle, and Don Alfonso, Manuel's uncle, sailed from here Sunday on the British royal yacht, Victoria and Albert, for England. Their embarkation was attended by the full ceremony observable in the case of a reigning sovereign.

He'll Not Soon Forget It.

Trenton, N. J., Oct. 17.—Residents of Morrisville, Pa., a village just across the river from this city, took a summary method of punishing Amos Wright for giving liquor to a minor. A number of men took Wright to a shed, smeared him with tar and rolled him in feathers.

LIQUID CURES ECZEMA

WHERE SALVES FAIL

In regard to skin diseases, medical authorities are now agreed on this: Don't imprison the disease germs in your skin by the use of greasy salves, and thus encourage them to multiply. A true cure of all eczematous diseases can be brought about only by using the healing agents in the form of a liquid.

WASH THE GERMS OUT.

A simple wash: A compound of Oil of Wintergreen, Thymol, and other ingredients as combined in the D. D. D. Prescription. This penetrates to the disease germs and destroys them, then soothes and heals the skin as nothing else has ever done.

A 25 cent trial bottle will start the cure, and give you instant relief.

In the examination of the poisonous machinery of insects and reptiles it is apparent that the destructive principle is the same in all and that the fang in all possesses a hollow through which the poison flows into the wound the moment the incision is made. The sting of the scorpion is precisely like the fang of the rattlesnake and performs its deadly work on the same mechanical principles.

Capt. Bogardus Again Hits the Bull's Eye.

This world famous rifle shot who holds the championship record of 100 pigeons in 100 consecutive shots is living at Lincoln, Ill. Recently interviewed, he says: "I suffered a long time with kidney and bladder trouble and used several well known kidney medicines, all of which gave me no relief until I started taking Foley Kidney Pills. Before I used Foley Kidney Pills I had severe backaches and pains in my kidneys with suppression and a cloudy voiding. On arising in the morning I would get dull headaches. Now I have taken three bottles of Foley Kidney Pills and feel 100 per cent. better. I am never bothered with my kidneys or bladder and again feel like my own self." A. J. Pellens.

WELLMAN REPORTS

BAD LUCK ABOARD

"Outlook Not So Favorable" For Aerial Trip.

Woodhole, Mass., Oct. 17.—A message caught at Siasconset read: "Have shut down motors and am heading east northeast. Making twenty-five knots an hour with engines. Saving juice for wireless. Dynamos not working. Thick fog. No observation obtainable.—Wellman."

Later this message was picked up: "The outlook not so favorable, but we are keeping up the fight.—Wellman."

Atlantic City, N. J., Oct. 17.—Folks who learned from the Sunday papers that the officers and crew of the out-bound steamer Coamo were the last to report having seen Wellman and his five companions who left here Saturday morning in the airship America, headed for Europe, hurried to Bob Miller's wireless station and learned that the airship had just been spoken some place off Nantucket.

The last message from the America which Miller received had been picked up by the wireless at Siasconset and was relayed through to Miller.

"All well," said the message. "No trouble with machinery. Expect to make the trip." The message was signed by both Wellman and Jack Irwin, wireless operator of the America. From reports of the Siasconset post there evidently was not enough off-shore breeze to roll away the fog into which Wellman had nosed his way from here. The strength of the wireless response to Siasconset's call led to the belief that the America was close to Nantucket, but the fog prevented the Siasconset operator from sighting the airship. At noon, however, he sent word to Miller that he had just seen the America through his glasses and that she appeared to be swinging a little more to the north, probably with the idea of heading for the grand banks and steamer lanes. At 12:45 Irwin sent to Siasconset the last message received here at this writing. At this hour Irwin sent the one word "Yes" in reply to inquiries from Siasconset as to whether all was going well aboard the airship.

An airline from Atlantic City to a point off Nantucket measures approximately 300 miles. If the America were off Siasconset at 9 o'clock Sunday morning she would have traveled the 300 miles in twenty-five hours, an average speed of twelve miles an hour. A trip of 3,000 miles at the same speed, therefore, would require steady flight for ten days or more.

Interesting Aerial Voyage.

London, Oct. 17.—The passage from France to England by means of a dirigible balloon was accomplished for the first time Sunday, when the new Clement-Bayard airship, on which a British parliamentary committee has an option, made a voyage over the channel. It started from Lamotte Breuil, near Paris, at 7:15 in the morning and reached London in a little less than six hours. It traveled with the greatest steadiness for the whole 252 miles. M. Clement, the designer, and six others were aboard.

SKIN AFFECTIONS

Whether on Infant or Grown Person Cured by Zemo and Zemo Soap. "An Unusual Offer"

The A. J. Pellens Drug Store says to every person, be it man, woman or child, who has an irritated, tender or itching skin to come to our store and procure a bottle of ZEMO and a cake of ZEMO soap and if you are not entirely satisfied with results, come back and get your money. So confident are we of the efficacy of this clean, simple treatment, that we make you this unusual offer.

ZEMO is a clear liquid for external use that has cured so many cases of eczema, pimples, dandruff and other forms of skin diseases. ZEMO and ZEMO soap are the most economical as well as the cleanest and most effective treatment for affections of skin or scalp, whether on infant or grown person.

SARGENT WINS PRAISE.

Is Chairman of Republican Speakers' Bureau in Marion County.

H. H. Sargent, formerly of Seymour but now practicing law in Indianapolis, is making a record this year as chairman of the Republican speakers' bureau in Marion county. The Indianapolis Star says:

The local committee members expressed satisfaction last night with the way in which the plans for Roosevelt day were carried out by Hurst H. Sargent, chairman of the Republican speakers' bureau, and those who assisted him with the work.

While the arrangements in general were made by the Republican county committee, it was up to Mr. Sargent and those who helped him, to look after the many details that made the day almost perfect from the standpoint of arrangements. Assisting Mr. Sargent at the speaking stand were Clarence Martin, Neal Thurston and Delos A. Alig, who acted as ushers.

Final plans for the remainder of the Republican campaign in this county so far as speakers are concerned will be made at a meeting which H. H. Sargent, chairman of the speakers' bureau of the Republican county committee, has called for tomorrow night.

All the ward and township committeemen have been asked to attend this meeting. The plan of the chairman of the bureau is to confer with each of the committeemen as to what he regards as the needs of his bailiwick and to learn what speakers are most in demand in the various sections.

Within a few days, Mr. Sargent announced yesterday, noon meetings will start at the factories and the subject of noon meetings will also be considered at the conference tomorrow evening at the Republican headquarters.

HERE IS A REMEDY THAT WILL CURE ECZEMA.

"We Prove It"

Why waste time and money experimenting with greasy salves and lotions, trying to drive the eczema germ from underneath the skin when the A. J. Pellens Drug Store guarantees ZEMO, a clean liquid preparation for external use to rid the skin of the germ life that causes the trouble? One application will relieve the itching and often times one bottle is sufficient to cure a minor case of eczema.

In over 2,000 towns and cities in America, the leading druggist has the agency for ZEMO and he will tell you the marvelous cures made by this clean, simple treatment. ZEMO is recognized as the cleanest and most popular treatment for eczema, pimples, dandruff and all other forms of skin or scalp affections whether on infant or grown person. Will you try a bottle on our recommendation? A. J. Pellens Drug Store.

MANY CLAIMED BY A TROPICAL HURRICANE

Great Loss of Life Reported In Isle of Cuba.

Key West, Fla., Oct. 15.—Many persons are reported dead in the Cuban provinces as the result of the tropical hurricane. There has been a tremendous loss to crops. Scores are said to have perished in Santa Clara province. The wires from Havana are down and the extent of the death and injury is unknown. The storm is sweeping up the Atlantic coast at from fifty to sixty miles an hour heading in a north-westerly direction toward Louisiana and Texas. In its wake it has left heavy damage.

The tobacco crop in Pinar Del Rio province in Cuba probably is ruined, and there are reports of heavy loss of life in Casilda. Exposed to the full fury of the storm, in the Gulf of Mexico and off the eastern coast of Florida, are several steamships. The full force of the gale struck Havana and brought with it torrents of rain. The street lights were extinguished. Reports from Havana, Matanzas, Santa Clara and Pinar Del Rio provinces told of heavy damage. In the city the traffic was suspended and business was practically at a standstill. The Isle of Pines is said to have suffered severely.

TAFT'S HOLIDAY COMES TO CLOSE

The President's Family Has Left Beverly.

VACATION WAS NOT A SUCCESS

President Taft Returns to Washington Full of Disappointment Because the Summer on the Myopia Golf Course Failed to Bring His Score Up to the Record He Made the Year Before.

Beverly, Mass., Oct. 17.—President Taft's vacation ended today when he left Beverly for New York city. The president will go back to his desk at the White House in fine physical condition except for a sore foot, which he is obliged to favor slightly. The president's lameness had just about disappeared when he overtaxed the injured foot on the golf course the other day, and he will have to go easy with it during his three days in New York. The president, notwithstanding his golfing and strenuous gymnasium work, is going bank several pounds heavier than when he arrived on the north shore, about July 1. There has been one disappointment for him in the vacation just ending, and that is his failure to play the Myopia golf course in less than 100. The Myopia course is regarded by experts as the sportiest in the country, about twenty strokes harder than the average 18-hole course. The Myopia course is strewn with sand-pits and bunkers, some of the former being three and four feet deep. A mislay into one of these infernal pits means the ruination of a day's score, and it has been seldom that the president got around without being tempted to cuss.

Next to golf, the president has taken the greatest pleasure from his motor trips. He has covered several thousand miles in motor jaunts in the course of the summer, and there has been scarcely a day since his arrival here that has not seen him taking an evening run with Mrs. Taft and other members of his family over the fine roads in this neighborhood.

The president left Beverly this morning and will arrive in New York early this evening. He will be a guest at the home of his brother, Henry W. Taft, during his stay in the city. Mrs. Taft and Miss Helen Taft accompanied the president.

CONTEST BEGINS

The Cubs and the Athletics Open the Great Series This Afternoon.

Philadelphia, Oct. 17.—An enormous crowd gathered here this afternoon to attend the first game of the world's series. Hundreds of seat applicants have been turned down because of a lack of accommodations. Shibe Park, where the contest is to take place, will hold more than 35,000 people, but the managers say that many are on hand. In the betting the Cubs are slight favorites.

After tomorrow's game the Cubs and Athletics will spend a part of Wednesday on the road to Chicago, where they are scheduled to play Thursday and Friday. Then come acrobatic railroad jumps, the teams hustling to Philadelphia for a game on Saturday and scurrying back to Chicago for a tussle on Sunday. If a seventh game is necessary the time and place will be decided by lot.

The umpires are O'Day and Rigler of the National League, and Connolly and Sheridan of the American. The receipts will be divided as follows: To the players 60 per cent of 90 per cent of the first four games, to be cut 60 per cent to the winners of the series and 40 per cent to the losers; to the club owners 40 per cent of 90 per cent of the first four games, and 90 per cent of the other games, to be equally divided; to the national commission, 10 per cent of all the games.

TWO BIG MEETINGS

Mr. Bryan First Addresses Men, Then Women at Lebanon.

Lebanon, Ind., Oct. 17.—William Jennings Bryan addressed two of the largest meetings that ever assembled in this city Sunday, one of them being a meeting for women only and one a meeting for men only. Early in the morning people began to come here from places ten and twenty miles away and when the first meeting opened at the Christian church there was not standing room for the people, while the street for nearly a square was lined with those who could not gain admission. Mr. Bryan spoke mainly to the young and exhorted against skepticism, which he said was a growing menace in this country, and urged his hearers to encourage religion as the one great need in this world, as well as in preparation for the world to come.

When he spoke at the Methodist church to women only there was a duplication in numbers of the crowd that greeted him at the other meeting, every seat being taken and hundreds standing around the windows and out in the street. Bryan was warmly greeted and was frequently applauded. His address to the women was mainly a recital of his observations during his trips abroad of what Christianity was doing for the world through its missionary fields.

HENRY L. STIMSON.

Republican Nominee For the Governorship of New York.

Oyster Bay, N. Y., Oct. 17.—Candidate Stimson came down Sunday morning and stayed for luncheon with the Roosevelts. The colonel had a lot of things that he wanted to discuss with Mr. Stimson, and he wanted to discuss them before the gubernatorial candidate got started on his campaign trip today.

KETCHEL'S SLAYER TAKEN BY FARMERS

He Confessed Shooting, Pleading Self Defense.

Springfield, Mo., Oct. 17.—Walter Dibley, who shot and killed Stanley Ketchel, champion middle-weight pugilist, at the ranch of R. H. Dickerson, seven miles from Conway, Mo., was arrested by three farmers near Nian-gua, seventeen miles from the scene of the crime. Dibley went to the home of Thomas Haggard, one mile south of Nian-gua, and asked to be permitted to remain over night, which he was allowed to do. Haggard later, hearing of the Ketchel murder, guarded the room occupied by the man and sent word to neighbors, telling them of the man. Then he called a newspaper office here for a description of the murderer, and on receiving it said he had the man at his home. Upon being confronted Dibley confessed that he had shot Ketchel. The man then told of the alleged remarks made to Goldie Smith by Ketchel on the day before the murder, saying he killed Ketchel because he feared he would lose his own life, as Ketchel had a revolver in a belt around his waist.

Dibley was taken to Marshfield and placed in jail there. He admitted that he had served four years in the United States navy and deserted, and that his home is in Webb City, Mo. He met Goldie Smith in Bluff Christian county, at the home of her stepfather, about a month ago, when they decided to live as man and wife. The inquest will be held today to allow the body to be taken to the Michigan home of Ketchel as soon as possible.

INJUNCTION NOT A LOCAL RULING

Race Tip Ban Applies to the Whole State.

TELEPHONE MEN TO APPEAL

Judge Montgomery's Ruling That the Injunction Against the Cumberland Telephone Company Barring the Use of Its Wires For the Carrying of Racing "Tips" Applies to the Whole State Will Be Resisted.

Jeffersonville, Ind., Oct. 17.—The injunction issued a few weeks ago here against the Cumberland Telephone and Telegraph company, enjoining the company from furnishing racing information to any point in Indiana, has been sustained by Judge Montgomery in the Clark circuit court.

The judge declared the order applies to the whole state and not only to the poolroom north of this city, which was made the initial object of the suit.

The company objected to the clause enjoining it from furnishing racing data outside of Jeffersonville, and had its motion to modify, filed a few days ago, been sustained, the permanent injunction would have applied only to the poolroom operated formerly near this city and would have defeated the purpose of the state to obtain an injunction of so general a form that in any future case proceedings might be had on the grounds of contempt of court. Judge Montgomery held the injunction was not against the place, but against the parties and must be held good in every part of the state. An appeal was taken to the supreme court. Ninety days was allowed for the filing of a bill of exceptions.

DENIED CHARGE

With Tears Streaming, Mrs. Johnson Protested Innocence.

Newcastle, Ind., Oct. 17.—Mrs. Etta Young Johnson was placed under arrest by Sheriff Kirk, charged with murder in the first degree, as the result of the death of George E. Johnson, her husband, on Aug. 17 last. Mrs. Johnson, with tears streaming down her face and protesting her innocence, accompanied the sheriff to jail quietly.

Johnson's death was attributed to natural causes. When it developed that he carried over $12,000 life insurance his brothers, residing at Crawfordville, became suspicious, and Coroner Ramsey ordered an autopsy. This revealed the fact that the deceased came to his death by carbolic acid poisoning. The matter was then put before the Henry county grand jury and an indictment was returned against the widow. Although Mrs. Johnson has attempted to collect the insurance, the companies have withheld payment, pending the investigation.

Suicide of a Policeman.

Terre Haute, Ind., Oct. 17.—Arthur F. Mank, a patrolman of the Terre Haute police department, committed suicide by shooting himself through the head. Mank had been in poor health and had been off duty several weeks. Officers say Mank had not acted right since last winter, when he was criticised because of the mysterious death of a man he arrested.

Elected For the Eighth Time.

Fort Wayne, Ind., Oct. 17.—Mrs. Culla J. Vayhinger of Upland was elected president of Indiana W. C. T. U. for the eighth consecutive time at the annual convention of the organization here. Mrs. Elizabeth Stanley of Liberty was re-elected vice president, and Mrs. Mary Woodard of Fountain City corresponding secretary.

Caught on Handcar.

Carbon, Ind., Oct. 17.—While riding on a handcar with her husband west of Carbon Mrs. Clarence Winters was killed instantly by a westbound Big Four freight train. Mr. Winters is Big Four freight agent at Carbon. They did not see the freight until it was too late to escape.

Despondent and Lonely.

Laporte, Ind., Oct. 17.—The body of Miss Emma Brown, sixty years old, was found in a wheat field, where she had died after taking strychnine. She left a note telling of the disposal of her property, which amounts to $100,000. She was despondent and lonely.

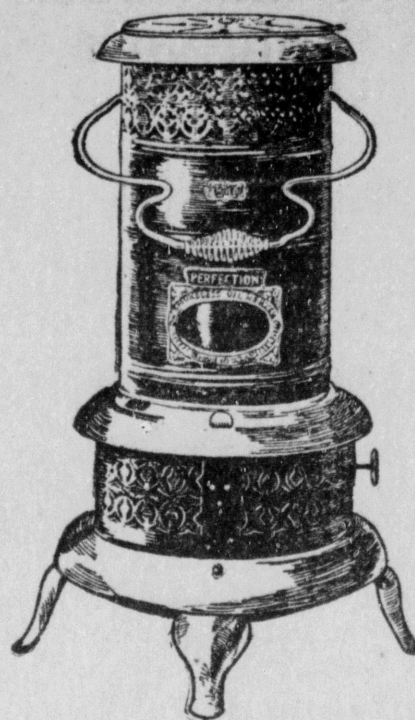

He Pleaded Guilty.

Indianapolis, Oct. 17.—John E. Leeder was sentenced in criminal court to serve a term of from two to four years in the Indiana reformatory. Leeder forged the name of Ralph E. Ingram to five checks. He pleaded guilty.

A Translator's Blunder.

Jacob Boehme, the "mystic shoemaker," once wrote a pamphlet which he called "Reflections on the Treatise of Isaiaph Stiefel." One of Boehme's biographers had never heard of that theologian. But he knew enough German to be aware that "Stiefel" meant "boot," and he was further misled by the fact that Boehme was a cobbler as well as a philosopher, so he made a brilliant shot and spoke of the pamphlet in question as Boehme's "Reflections on the Boots of Isaiaph." In this guise it passed into several catalogues.

you do not have to work close to the stove, which is usually far from the window. You can work where you wish, and be warm. You can work on dull winter days in the full light near the window, without being chilled to the bone.

The Perfection Oil Heater quickly gives heat, and with one filling of the font burns steadily for nine hours, without smoke or smell. An indicator always shows the amount of oil in the font. The filler-cap, put in like a cork in a bottle, is attached by a chain. This heater has a cool handle and a damper top.

The Perfection Oil Heater has an automatic-locking flame spreader, which prevents the wick from being turned high enough to smoke, and is easy to remove and drop back, so the wick can be quickly cleaned. The burner body or gallery cannot become wedged and can be unscrewed in an instant for reworking. The Perfection Oil Heater is finished in japan or nickel, is strong, durable, well-made, built for service, and yet light and ornamental.

WHY MEN SEEK FLOWING BOWL

Alcoholism Not Always a Habit,
Says Dr. Hurty.

PSYCHOLOGICAL CONDITIONS

Answering an Interesting Question, Secretary of the Indiana State Board of Health Says It Is Sometimes a Psychological Discontent That Leads Men to Drink—Strange Expedients to Overcome "Blues."

Indianapolis, Oct. 18.—"It probably will surprise some people and cause them to smile incredulously to be told that the desire for stimulants sometimes has a psychological origin," said Dr. Hurty, secretary of the Indiana state board of health, when the question was asked, "Why do so many men of talent and ability drink whisky?" The use of stimulants and drugs was under discussion and mention was made of Balzac's excessive use of coffee, DeQuincy's use of opium and Poe's alcoholic proclivities. "How can it possibly be that psychological conditions ever lead to drinking or drug addiction?" was asked when Dr. Hurty made the statement.

"It is true," said the doctor, "that not only men of talent or genius, but frequently ordinary people, have seasons of psychological discontent and dissatisfaction, seasons when they long and long after an ill-defined something. They don't know what it is, but they want something. They have states of vague discomfort, slight or marked discontent, and ennui. This feeling terminates with a longing for some definite sensation or action, generally excitement.

"Pain is sometimes sought to relieve the strain. A prominent neurologist tells of a patient of his, a psychasthenic, who several times slowly dropped boiling water upon her naked feet when the state of discontent or longing came upon her. The pain from the scalding was more tolerable than the blues. This patient would most probably have found relief in alcohol, had she been a man and brought into contact with it as men generally are, or in drugs, if her physician had given her medicines.

"More than one-half of a neurologist's patients suffer from no organic disease, but are in need of instruction how to direct and control their nervous life. The misdirected nervous life, the failure to control emotions, frequently leads to drinking, to suicide or the insane hospital. It is therefore true that drunkenness is not principally a disease, but is the result of a defective or diseased nervous system. The foundations of nervous diseases are generally laid in childhood and are the results of ignorant parenthood."

MET HERO'S DEATH

To Save Fast Train Muncie Section Hand Gave His Own Life.

Muncie, Ind., Oct. 18.—That the fast Southwestern Limited on the Big Four might not be wrecked and another horror be added to the many of recent weeks, William Bortfield, a $9 a week section hand, met a hero's death.

Three hundred passengers whom he had saved, paid tearful tribute to his memory. Bortfield, riding a heavy handcar, while inspecting track, looked up to see the big train of Pullmans rushing down upon him at a mile a minute. He jumped from his car.

Then he went back to take the handcar from the track, evidently hoping to avert a wreck. He succeeded, but the train struck him and he was lifeless when picked up.

BURN OLD CLOTHES

Health Board at Logansport Down on Rummage Sales.

Logansport, Ind., Oct. 18.—The city board of health has closed two rummage sales conducted by church charity organizations and issued orders that in the future no more rummage sales will be permitted. On instructions from the board of health, the matron at the Orphans' home burned about a wagon load of castoff clothing which had been collected by the Orphans' home board and sent to the institution. It is thought that the epidemic of scarlet fever in the Orphans' home last winter was due to clothing which came from rummage sales.

FLORIDA COAST IN PATH OF HURRICANE

Details Expected to Show Great Loss of Life.

Jacksonville, Fla., Oct. 18.—Advices received here indicate that the east and west coasts of Florida have been harried by one of the worst hurricanes in history. After having apparently passed to northward, the hurricane re-curved and struck Key West furiously. Key West reported wind blowing 80 miles an hour and much damage done. Later all communication with Key West was lost and the damage done the island city is only problematical.

Tampa reported wind of hurricane velocity and great damage done to small craft. Advices from the east coast are ominous. The extension work on the Florida East Coast railway has been greatly damaged and a grade train is reported swept away north of Key West. How many laborers perished when the train was carried away is not known.

At St. Augustine the wind drove the waves over the seawall and a portion of the city was flooded. It is feared that the details will show great loss of life on both east and west coasts.

Foodless and Homeless.

Havana, Oct. 18.—Throughout the provinces of Havana and Pinar del Rio not only is the tobacco crop wiped out, but the minor crops, on which the Cubans depend for food, are also destroyed, together with houses and barns, leaving the natives foodless and homeless.

THE PARIS STRIKE

Latest Development Is the Activity of the Women.

Paris, Oct. 18.—There has been a decrease in the acts of vandalism committed by strikers or their sympathizers, and an increase in the number of arrests. Among those taken into custody is Bidament, the most militant advocate of a general railway strike. A new feature of the strike was the holding of a meeting by 700 women. They attempted to make a manifestation after the meeting, but the police dispersed them. They planned to meet at the railway stations in order to dissuade the men from returning to work, but the police forbade their lingering outside the stations.

The TRIUMPH
Air Blast

Is the latest and greatest invention for producing heat from soft coal. Practically all fuel can be turned into heat and utilized in the room—no waste of gases, no waste of soot, no waste by having ashes banked against the fire pot. When we say we can save you one-third of your fuel bill is putting it mildly. The construction of the fire pot is so arranged that its radiation surface is double that of any other soft coal stove made. It is the only fire pot where it is absolutely impossible for ashes to bank against; the only fire pot where hot air has a complete circulation from top to bottom. The perfect fitting ash pit door, the ball bearing grate, the solid cast body are all features worth your while to consider in buying a stove. We will be glad to demonstrate the construction of the Triumph Air Blast and prove up what we say.

ELECTRIC INSULATION.

New Material Promises to Supersede That Now In Use.

Since electricity first began to be distributed commercially the subject of insulation has been an important one. Glass, hard rubber and porcelain have long held supremacy, although innumerable efforts have been made to find substitutes that were either cheaper or better or both.

The latest result of these efforts to reach the commercial stage is a composition substance which was first worked out in Germany and is now being manufactured in this country under the name of hemit, from the name of the discoverer, Mr. Hemming. The product is known in Germany as "gummon." It is claimed for hemit that it has a specific resistance at least equal to unglazed porcelain, is neither consumed, warped or cracked by high temperatures, notwithstanding a red heat or even the heat of the electric arc for a considerable time; has not the brittleness of glass or porcelain, can be machined after being shaped, is pressed cold, thus permitting the insertion of metal parts; does not shrink or warp in the process of making, thus securing accuracy and uniformity in size, and can compete with glass and porcelain in price. These are surely a list of qualities which should insure it a very large use.

That the claims are well founded seems to be borne out by the actual experience with the material in Germany, where it has now been in use for four or five years. Certain of its qualities will enable it to entirely supplant and, in fact, revolutionize some lines of electrical fittings. Lamp sockets may be among these.—Illuminating Engineer.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.
